

PRESIDENT WILLIAM M'KINLEY IS LAID IN THE GRAVE AT CANTON

SERVICES AT THE OLD HOME. OAKLAND MOURNS PRESIDENT. OUR TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE MOURN FOR THE DEAD CHIEF—
FINAL WORDS OF THE MINISTERS — FLORAL
TRIBUTES FROM MANY NATIONS.

CANTON, O., Sept. 19.—The streets of the little city of Canton were filled this morning with waving plumes, prancing horses and densely packed bodies of moving men assembling here for the procession which is to escort the remains of the late President from the church to West Lawn cemetery this afternoon.

All night and morning civic and military, fraternal, social and commercial organizations from the four quarters of the compass had been pouring in. So fast the trains arrived that there appeared to be one continuous string of cars unloading their human freight through the station into the congested streets beyond.

Thirty special trains, in addition to the regular trains, had arrived before noon. The biggest crowd in the history of Canton, which was here during the campaign of 1896, estimated at over 60,000, was exceeded today.

The people overflowed the sidewalks and literally packed the streets from side to side. The greatest crush of course, was in East Tuscarawas, the principal thoroughfare, and North Market street, on which the McKinley cottage and the Harter residence, at which President Roosevelt was stopping, are located. The awe-stricken crowds, upon their arrival, as if by a common impulse, toward the old familiar cottage where the remains were lying.

Military Guards

Military guards, stationed at the four corners of the lawn, paced their beats, but there was no sign of life about the house of death. The window shades were drawn. A long border of black, which had been put in place after the body was removed to the house last night, fringed the roof of the porch from which McKinley had spoken to delegations from every State in the Union, and where he had met and talked with all the chieftains of his party. No badge of conventional mourning was on the door. Instead, there was a simple wreath of palms bisected by a beautiful band of wide purple satin ribbon. Sorrowfully the throngs turned away, the people to take up their positions at the church, the representatives to seek their places in the imposing procession which was to follow the remains to the cemetery.

The two sections of the train bearing the Senate and House of Representatives and other Government officials from Washington arrived during the morning.

Mrs. McKinley's Condition.

Mrs. McKinley's condition is exciting grave apprehension among those caring for her and it is feared that the dread collapse may come at any moment. Since she has returned to the old home the full realization of the awful calamity has come upon her. Last evening after the body had been brought from the court house and deposited in the little front room formerly used as the President's library, she pleaded to be allowed to enter the room and sit beside the casket. Consent was granted and for half an hour the stricken widow sat in the dim light beside the flower-draped bier. Then she was led away to her room and has not left it since. Through this morning she wept piteously hour after hour. Owing to her condition she was able to take no part in any of the ceremonies today, neither at the church nor coming into the chamber of death, when the body was borne away for the last time. From this time on she will be guarded with the most solicitous care and quiet, for it is only in this way that a collapse can be averted.

President Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt spent a quiet morning at the Harter residence. He did not go into the crowded street, where thousands were gathered, hoping to catch a glimpse of his fact, but took a walk in the spacious grounds of the residence. While at breakfast Judge Day joined him for half an hour, and later Secretary Root and Secretary Hitchcock came to see him.

Many unofficial visitors left cards of respect, but the President saw very few people, preferring to remain in retirement. Among those who called were half a score of his old command of the Rough Riders, several of them in their broad-brimmed sombreros. The President saw them only for a moment.

At Home With Her Dead.

The face of the dead President was seen for the last time when it lay in state yesterday. The casket was sealed before it was borne away from the court house.

When Mrs. McKinley came into the death chamber last night for her last moments beside her dead husband, she wished to have a final look at the upturned face. But this was impossible, and the sealed casket with its flowers and flags was all that she saw.

The collection of flowers was probably the most beautiful ever seen in the United States. The conservatories of the country had been denuded to supply them. By direction of the monarchs of Europe, the South American rulers, the Governors of the British colonies in Australia and Canada, the Emperor, from the four quarters of the earth, in fact—came directions to adorn the bier of McKinley with flowers whose fragrance might be symbolic of the sweetness and purity to the ended life.

But these tributes from foreign countries were buried beneath the floral tributes of McKinley's countrymen. There were tons and tons of them, and a list of those who sent them would be almost a complete roster of those prominent in the official life of the United States.

A feature of the floral tributes was the large number sent by organizations, fraternal, commercial and political.

Great Crowd Near Cottage.

Toward noon the crowds in the vicinity of the McKinley cottage had increased to tens of thousands. North Market street was a living, seething mass of humanity for five squares below the house and for three squares beyond. Several regiments of soldiers were required to preserve a semblance of order.

With guns advanced the men were posted along the curbs and within the walks for half a mile in either direction. A platoon of soldiers was thrown across the gate leading up to the door of the McKinley residence, and only those with a written permit from Secretary Gourdeau were permitted to enter the grounds. The vast throng was contented, however, to gaze at the curtained windows and at rare intervals to see some member of the family or an attendant come to the porch outside.

In Chamber of Death.

Within the chamber of death all was silence. No longer was the coming and going of relatives and near friends. The curtains were closely drawn, enshrouding the room in gloom, with no ray of gas to light up the

SIMPLE SERVICES WERE HELD IN THE CHURCH.

CANTON, O., Sept. 19.—Services in the church were simple. They began with the rendition of an organ prelude, Beethoven's funeral march, played by Miss Florence Douds. As the last notes of the prelude were still, she Euterpean Ladies' Quartet of Canton sang "The Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Rev. O. B. Milligan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Canton, delivered the invocation.

The Ninetieth Psalm was read by Dr. John A. Hall of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Canton, and that portion of the Fifteenth Chapter of the First Corinthians included between the forty-first and fifty-eighth verses was read by Rev. E. P. Herbroeck of the Trinity Reformed Church of Canton.

The favorite hymn of President McKinley, "Lead Kindly Light," was then rendered by a quartet of two male and two female voices. When this hymn had been finished Dr. C. E. Manchester, pastor of the First Methodist Church, delivered his address.

At the conclusion of Dr. Manchester's discourse Bishop I. W. Joyce of Minneapolis delivered a short prayer.

The hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee" was sung by the entire congregation. The people remained standing after the close of the hymn while the benediction was pronounced by Father Voltman of the Twenty-ninth United States Infantry.

The casket was then borne from the church to the funeral car and the march of the procession to the cemetery began.

melancholy scene. The guards still stood motionless at their posts, a soldier at the head of the casket and a sailor with drawn cutlass at the foot. Thus throughout the morning the vast multitude surged without, while the silence was broken only by the weeping of the stricken widow.

The Minister's Address.

CANTON, O., Sept. 19.—Following is the address of Rev. C. E. Manchester, delivered in church this afternoon: "Our President is dead. The silver cord is loosed. The golden bowl is broken at the fountain. The wheel is broken at the cistern. The mourners go about the streets. One voice is heard—a wail of sorrow from all the lands, for the beauty of Israel is slain upon the high places. How are the mighty fallen!

"I am distressed for thee, my brother. Very pleasant hast thou been unto me.

Our President Is Dead.

"Our President is dead. We can hardly believe it. We had hoped and prayed and it seemed that our hopes were to be realized and our prayers answered, when the emotion of joy was changed to one of grave apprehension. Still we waited, for we said: 'It may be that God will be gracious and merciful unto us.' It seemed to us that it must be His will to spare the life of one so well beloved and so much needed. Thus alternating between hope and fear, the weary hours passed on. "Then came the tidings of defeated science, of the failure of love and prayer, to hold its object to the earth. We seemed to hear the faintly uttered words: 'Good bye all; Good bye. It's God's way. His will be done.' And then, 'Nearer My God to Thee.' So nestling nearer to his God, he passed out into the unconsciousness, skirted the dark shores of the sea of death for a time and then passed on to be at rest. His great heart had ceased to beat. Our hearts are heavy with sorrow.

"A voice is heard on earth of kinfolk weeping! The loss of one they love;

But he has gone where the redeemed are keeping A festival above.

The mourners throng the ways and from the steeple The funeral bells toll slow;

But on the golden streets the holy people Are passing to and fro.

And saying as they meet 'Rejoice, Another long-awaited-for is come.'

The Saviour heart is glad, a younger brother Has reached the Father's Home."

The Man Himself.

"The cause of this universal mourning is to be found in the man himself. The inspired penman's picture of Jonathan, likening him unto the 'beauty of Israel,' could not be more appropriately employed than in chanting the lament of our fallen chieftain. It does no violence to human speech; nor is it fulsome eulogy to speak thus of him, for who that has seen has stately bearing, his grace and manliness of demeanor.

STATE MOURNS M'KINLEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—California offered reverence to the dead Chief Magistrate today. Every city, town and village in the State observed the occasion by some public demonstration of the grief and sorrow which have fallen upon the nation. In the larger cities most impressive memorial services had been arranged and business of all kinds was relegated to the background.

At Sacramento, Los Angeles, San Diego and other large cities, in addition to the general observance of the day by the different religious denominations, public memorial services were held. In this city the public services were held at Mechanics' Pavilion, and 20,000 people crowded within the immense structure. General Barnes spoke.

AT SANTA ANA.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 19.—The entire population of Santa Ana is in mourning today. No business of any description is being transacted. All stores and offices are closed for the day and a large portion of them are heavily draped in mourning. The morning hours were busily occupied by the Grand Marshal and aides, together with the executive committee in arranging the final details for the parade, which started promptly at 2 o'clock, headed by the Santa Ana band playing the funeral dirge.

SACRAMENTO SERVICES.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 19.—The doors of all the business houses and all factories in Sacramento were closed today. Services in honor of the dead President were held in all the churches in the forenoon. At noon the church bells were tolled and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock public services were held in Capitol Park, where an immense crowd of people had assembled. Chief Justice W. H. Beat his kindness of aspect, but gives assent to this description of him. "It was characteristic of our beloved President that men met him only to love him. They might, indeed, differ with him, but in the presence of such dignity of character and grace of manner, none could fail to love the man. The people confided in him, believed in him. It was said of Lincoln that probably no man since the days of Washington was ever so deeply imbedded and enshrined in the hearts of the people, but it is true of McKinley in a larger sense. Industrial and social conditions are such that he was, even more than his predecessors, the friend of the whole people.

Our Illustrious Dead.

"It is a glorious thing to be able to say in this presence, with our illustrious dead before us, that he never betrayed the confidence of his countrymen. Not for personal gain or pre-eminence would he mar the beauty of his soul. He kept it clean and white before God and man, and his hands were unguilted by bribes. His eyes looked right on and his eyelids looked straight before him. He was sincere, plain and honest; just, benevolent and kind. He never disappointed those who believed in him, but measured up to every duty and met every responsibility in life, grandly and unflinchingly.

Was Brave and Honest.

"Not only was our President brave, heroic and honest; he was as gallant a knight as ever rode the lists for his lady-love in the days when knighthood was in flower. It is but a few weeks since the Nation looked on with tear-dimmed eyes, as it saw with what tender conjugal devotion he sat at the bed-side of his beloved wife, when all feared that a fatal illness was upon her. No public clamor that he might show himself to the populace, no demand of a social function was sufficient to draw the lover from the bed-side of his wife. He watched and waited while we all prayed—and she lived. This sweet and tender story all the world knows. And the world knows that his whole life had run in this one groove of love. It was a strong arm that he leaned upon and it never failed her. Her smile was more to him than the plaudits of the multitude and for her greeting his acknowledgments of them must wait. After receiving the fatal wound his first thought was that the terrible news might be broken gently to her. May God, in this deep hour of sorrow, comfort her. May His grace be greater than her anguish. May the widow's God be her God.

He Was a Christian.

Another beauty in the character of our President that was a chaplet of ty of the Supreme Court presided.

STOCKTON'S TRIBUTE.

STOCKTON, Sept. 19.—Stockton and her citizens, in common with the sorrowing millions of citizens of the great American republic today paid a last sad tribute to the memory of William McKinley, the murdered President of the United States.

Fully 5,000 people gathered in the Agricultural pavilion to witness the memorial service, which followed the long parade. Addresses appropriate to the solemn occasion were delivered by Hon. E. I. Jones, Judge of the Superior Court; Hon. F. D. Nicol and Rev. W. C. Evans, pastor of the Central M. E. Church.

SAN JOSE IN MOURNING.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 19.—San Jose is in deep mourning today and fever in its history has there been such a general suspension of business. Even the Chinese have closed all their games of chance. The city is appropriately garbed in mourning and the flags everywhere are flying at half-mast. Impressive services were held this forenoon in all the churches and at the State Normal School, while thousands gathered in St. James Park in the early afternoon to listen to the public memorial exercises.

AT SANTA ANA.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 19.—The entire population of Santa Ana is in mourning today. No business of any description is being transacted. All stores and offices are closed for the day and a large portion of them are heavily draped in mourning. The morning hours were busily occupied by the Grand Marshal and aides, together with the executive committee in arranging the final details for the parade, which started promptly at 2 o'clock, headed by the Santa Ana band playing the funeral dirge.

LOS ANGELES.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—Today Los Angeles set aside all business and other pursuits and the entire city joined in the general memorial services held in honor of the memory of the late President. Two public meetings were held in the afternoon, one at Hazard's Pavilion, which had been handsomely decorated, and one at Simpson's Auditorium.

grace about his neck was that he was a Christian. In the broadest, noblest sense of the word, that was true. His confidence in God was strong and unwavering. It held him steady in many a storm, where others were driven before the wind and tossed. He believed in the fatherhood of God and in His sovereignty. His faith in the gospel of Christ was deep and abiding. He had no patience with any other theme of pulpit discourse. "Christ and Him crucified" was to his mind the only panacea for the world's disorders. He believed it to be the supreme duty of the Christian minister to preach the word. He said: "We do not look for great business men to the pulpit, but for preachers." It is well known that his godly mother had hoped for him that he would become a minister of the gospel and that she believed it to be the highest vocation in life. It was not, however, his mother's faith that made him a Christian. He had gained in early life a personal knowledge of Jesus, which guided him in the performance of greater duties and vaster than have been the lot of any other American President. He said at one time, while bearing heavy burdens, that he could not discharge the daily duties of his life but for the fact that he had faith in God.

Believed in Prayer.

"William McKinley believed in prayer, in the beauty of it, in the potency of it. Its language was not unfamiliar to him, and his public addresses were not infrequently evidence of the fact. It was perfectly consistent with his lifelong convictions and his personal experiences that he should say at the first critical moment after the assassin approached: 'Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done,' and that he should declare at the last: 'It's God's way; His will be done.' He lived grandly; it was fitting that he should die grandly. And now that the majesty of death has touched and calmed him, we find that in his supreme moment he was still a conqueror.

"My friends and countrymen, with what language shall I attempt to give expression to the deep horror of our souls as I speak of the cause of his death? When we consider the magnitude of the crime that has plunged the country and the world into unutterable grief, we are not surprised that one nationality after another has hastened to repudiate the dreadful act. This gentle spirit, who hated no one, to whom every man was a brother, was suddenly smitten by the cruel hand of an assassin, and that, too, while in the very act of extending a kind and generous greeting to one who approached him under the sacred guise of friendship.

"Could the assassin have realized how awful was the act he was about to perform, how utterly heartless the deed, methinks he would have stayed his hand at the very threshold of it. In all the coming years men will seek in vain to fathom the enormity of that crime.

MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

There was no person who declined to serve upon this committee which was

THOUSANDS OF CITIZENS MARCH IN THE FUNERAL PROCESSION — ALL ORGANIZATIONS ARE REPRESENTED—STORES IN MOURNING.

The remains of the late President William McKinley now rest in a grave in the little cemetery at Canton, Ohio, beside those of his parents and his children. They were placed there today, and, in solemn recognition of the fact, and more especially that the deceased should have been robbed of life by the bullet of an assassin, the nation, and, indeed, all the world, mourned.

It is something of a coincidence that just twenty years ago today another son of Ohio, another President of the United States, James A. Garfield, should have surrendered his life at the hands of a murderer. Sixteen years before the shooting of Garfield, Abraham Lincoln, the first of the assassinated Presidents of this free Republic, received the martyr's crown at the hands of a bloody marksman, and in the presence of a throng of people in New York moved to the uttermost, that same Garfield subdued their passion by the words which have become classic as well as sacred: "God reigns and the government at Washington still lives."

ASSASSINATIONS MUST CEASE.

Today, distant though it be by thousands of miles from the hallowed dust in Canton, Oakland gave public expression to the sentiment of Garfield, notwithstanding the latest of the nation's bereavements, that "God reigns and the Government at Washington lives." It did so, however, with an anguish that was poignant because of its affliction and with a sentiment which was universal that the assassination of Presidents must come to a close.

There were thousands of people in the McKinley memorial procession today. No such aggregation of people ever appeared in a public demonstration in this city. They came from among those who were rich and poor, learned and illiterate, humble in station and aspiring to places of prestige and power. They came from every section of the county, even from adjoining counties, and everyone lamented the Chief who had been slain. They did more than that. They displayed a reserved power, the reading of which is that no more: Presidents must die at the hands of assassins and that anarchy must be crushed out in the land.

MARCHING AND MUSIC.

It is impossible, of course, to number the members of such a marching host. They moved in twos, fours, in company fronts, in a marching at will aggregation of citizens who needed no music to keep them in time and who required no commander to show them the way. Every man in line, whether garbed in the livery of the defenders of the nation, the sombre habiliments of the pulpit, or the glittering regalia of the secret orders, wore a symbol of mourning. A funeral tempo characterized the music played by the bands, and when the wailing of the dirge or the soothing strains of a favorite hymn were not sounding in the ears of the people, the tolling of church bells from almost every belfry told of the marching to the grave of the dead Chief Executive, the idol of the people.

WATER AND SYMBOLS.

This day broke cloudy and chill, as if in sympathy with the sorrow of the occasion, and indeed, throughout there was lacking the general warmth and the golden sunlight of the perfect day in this locality. Nature abhorred the crime, and she, too, veiled her face with sadness. From a thousand homes, factories and places of business flags floated at half-mast, and structures everywhere along the line in their drapery of black and white looked as cheerless as the tomb.

Along the route of the procession people were thronged half a dozen rows thick. Every window was occupied by young and old, and, in some instances, the roofs were hedged with human beings.

THE DIVISIONS.

Seven divisions were required to accommodate the marchers, a number unprecedented in the history of public displays in this city. Each division was filled as it was never filled in a street display before, and yet, at the last moment, there was a scramble for position of organizations which had been belated in getting their members into line. Not fewer than 10,000 people took part in the demonstration, and it may well be doubted, considering the constituency from which these in line were drawn whether a finer funeral pageant had ever taken place anywhere.

MEMORIAL COMMITTEE.

There was no person who declined to serve upon this committee which was appointed to receive President McKinley in this city early last May and there was no appointee who did not attend the reception at Senator Perkins' house although it was known that the President would not be present owing to the illness of his wife. Today that body of men, 100 in number, appeared as a memorial committee.

MINISTERS OF THE GOSPEL.

Scarcely less sorrowful were about seventy members of the Gospel of all denominations, in sombre raiment, men who had denounced the assassin.

THE EMPTY CARRIAGE.

There was a barouche, elaborately paneled with flowers and draped with silken flags, the brightness of which was dimmed by crepe. This was drawn by six coal black horses, caparisoned in black diamond-meshed nets with large tassels almost reaching to the ground. At the head of each horse was a groom in a Prince Albert coat, a silk hat, white gloves and a black bow, with trimmed ends upon his right or left arm, according to position. On the seat rode two stately coachmen in cream-colored suits. The coach had a light trimming. This was the coach of Mrs. F. M. Smith, in which the President had been driven through Oakland May 15 last, when he paid his deferred visit to the children of the schools. Beside it walked the honorary pall bearers, from one arm of each was hanging the two ends of a fold of English crepe, the pendants being each nearly a foot and a half in length. The barouche, however, was vacant. The Mayor, the chairman of the executive committee were not there today as they were on May 15. The President was not there. It was simply an empty carriage, but no moving funeral car could have created the effect which that lonely barouche had upon the people. Bands were distant from it. The almost noiseless rumbling of its rubber tires could be heard in the hush which fell upon the multitude as it approached. Heads were uncovered, lips quivered and tears glistened.

PATRIOTIC BODIES.

Without the Grand Army of the Republic a memorial for McKinley would be barren, indeed. But the G. A. R. was in evidence marching onward, also to the grave.

With the veterans were the Reserves, tried in war and peace; Sons of Veterans who have not forgotten the deeds of illustrious sires; veterans almost with beardless faces, who, in two wars within almost as many years, had achieved renown for the American arms and extended the gospel of peace.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

At the regular weekly meeting of Bay Tree Camp No. 640 W. O. W., Wednesday evening, September 11th, twenty-four candidates travelled the proverbial rough road which finally brought them to the center of the wood, into the camp, where all unanimously expressed perfect satisfaction with their trip. The initiation was admirably done by the officers and members of Oakland Camp Prize Drill and Degree Team.

After the business of the camp had been transacted, the social part of the program commenced in the shape of a banquet in honor of the new as well as the visiting neighbors many of whom responded with interesting speeches, appropriate to the occasion. Speeches were also made by some of the members of the camp.

The neighbors of Bay Tree Camp greatly appreciate the hustling abilities of neighbors Ithman, Cuthbert and Lilley of the entertainment committee in looking after the comforts of the guests in a truly hospitable manner.

All departed, with the affair a perfect success, and expressing a desire to attend similar affairs, given by Bay Tree Camp in the future.

Oakland Circle, No. 265 W. of W., held a short session last Saturday evening, transacting only such business as was necessary and closed out of respect to the memory of the late President William McKinley.

The following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, In the providence of an all-wise God death has followed the injuries sustained by our beloved President William McKinley at the hands of a vile and inhuman anarchist; and

"Whereas, We as a society do most deeply and sincerely mourn the loss of one who has endeavored himself to every true American heart; therefore be it

"Resolved, That we hereby pledge our unbounded devotion to the grand republic which has been so well and so faithfully guided by the one who is now forever at rest; and be it further

"Resolved, That we express our most heartfelt sympathy with the family and especially the widow of the deceased, who still survives, and that our prayers ascend that she may be given strength for this terrible trial; and be it

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread in full upon our minutes and a copy be sent to the official paper and to Mrs. McKinley."

DID NOT WANT TO TELL OF CAKE.

John Boehmer is Given a Hard Deal in Judge Hall's Court.

John Boehmer, who is suing Mary Jane Boehmer for a divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, was made to feel the power of the court this morning by Judge Hall in a forceful manner.

Boehmer was being cross-questioned by Attorney M. C. Chapman as to what disposition he had made of a cake he had purchased at a Berkeley church entertainment. Mrs. Boehmer claims that her husband gave the cake to Miss Lizzie Fowden, who is alleged to have been the rival of Mrs. Boehmer in the affections of her husband.

"Did you give the cake to Miss Fowden?" asked Attorney Chapman.

"No, I did not," replied Boehmer.

"What did you do with the cake, then?" asked Chapman.

"I gave it to another person because I did not want it," replied Boehmer.

"Who was this other person?"

"I refuse to tell."

"What was that answer?" asked Chapman.

"I said I would not tell the name of the person."

"Well, you must answer the question."

Interposed Judge Hall. "The court commands you to tell the name of the person."

"But I do not want to bring the person into this case," remonstrated Boehmer.

"You are in court and you must answer that question," said Judge Hall.

"Well, your Honor—"

"Answer that question right now. Be quick about it," said Judge Hall in sharp tones.

"Well, it was James Smith," said Boehmer.

Under further cross-examination Boehmer said he had known Smith only a week, did not know where he lived, what he worked at, whether he was married or not, or where he was at the present time. He said he gave the cake to Smith because he did not want it.

Boehmer admitted that he and Miss Fowden often crossed on the ferry boat together from Berkeley to San Francisco in the mornings when they were going to their respective places of employment, but he denied that he had ever taken the cake to her.

Boehmer is a contractor.

Judge Hall denied John Boehmer, a contractor, residing in Berkeley, a divorce from Mary Jane Boehmer this afternoon.

Boehmer charged his wife with extreme cruelty. She, in an answer, made counter charges.

In rendering his decision Judge Hall said: "From the testimony in this case I am convinced that the husband was more to blame than the wife. It is shown that soon after the wife went to Canada the husband gave his mustache and commenced keeping notorious company with this Miss Fowden, thereby scandalizing his family and causing his sons to be joked about the conduct of their father. The plaintiff's suit for a divorce is denied, and it is further ordered that the husband shall pay the sum of $40 a month to the wife for the support of their minor children."

MAKING BRICKS AT HAYWARDS.

Home Product Is Attracting the Attention of the People of the Town.

HAYWARDS, Sept. 19.—The work of making bricks at the local brewery grounds is going on at a lively rate. The bricks are being made with an old-fashioned hand press and a space at the rear of the brewery is being used for the brick plant. Two pug mills have been erected and the work of making the bricks is watched at times by large crowds.

Mr. Walker, who has charge of the work thoroughly understands his business and before the work is completed he will have made some 2,000,000 bricks. These will be used by Palmtag & Heyer in the construction of a new brewery and malt house, which, when completed will be one of the best in the country.

M'CARTHY IS MISSING.

HAYWARDS, Sept. 19.—It seems that the officers have been unable to locate McCarthy, the man for whom a warrant was issued some time ago upon complaint of Michael Murphy, who claims that McCarthy shot at him from a hill side while Murphy and a neighbor were disputing over their property line. The place has been searched and the man cannot be found. It is probable that he got wind that a warrant was to be served against him and skipped out.

GIVEN TIME TO ANSWER.

MORE BOXES OF GOLD.

And Many Greenbacks.

To secure additional information directly from the people, it is proposed to send little boxes of gold and greenbacks to persons who write the most interesting, detailed, and truthful descriptions of their experience on the following topics:

1. How have you been affected by coffee drinking and by changing from coffee to Postum?

2. Do you know any one who has been driven away from Postum because it came to the table weak and characterless at the first trial?

3. Did you set such a person right regarding the easy way to make Postum clear, black, and with a crisp, rich taste?

4. Have you ever found a better way to make it than to use four heaping teaspoonful to the pint of water, let stand on stove until near boiling begins, then note the clock and allow it to continue easy boiling full 15 minutes from that time stirring down occasionally? (A piece of butter about the size of a navy bean, placed in the pot will prevent boiling over.)

5. Give names and address of those you know to have been cured or helped in health by the dismissal of coffee and the daily use of Postum Food Coffee in its place.

6. Write names and addresses of 20 friends whom you believe would be benefited by leaving off coffee. (Your name will not be divulged to them.)

Address your letter to the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., writing your own name and address clearly.

Be honest and truthful, don't write poetry or fanciful letters, just plain, truthful statements.

Decision will be made between October 30th and November 10th, 1901, by three judges, not members of the Postum Cereal Co., and a neat little box containing a $10 gold piece sent to each of the five best writers, a box containing a $5 gold piece to each of the 20 next best writers, a $2 greenback to each of the 100 next best, and a $1 greenback to each of the 200 next best writers, making cash prizes distributed to 325 persons.

Almost every one interested in pure food and drink is willing to have their name and letter appear in the papers, for such help as it may offer to the human race. However, a request to omit name will be respected.

Every friend of Postum is urged to write and each letter will be held in high esteem by the company, as an evidence of such friendship, while the little boxes of gold and envelopes of money will reach many modest writers whose plain and sensible letters contain the facts desired, although the sender may have but small faith in winning at the time of writing.

Talk this subject over with your friends and see how many among you can win prizes. It is a good, honest competition and in the best kind of a cause. Out this statement out for it will not appear again.

DENIES CLAIM OF LABOR LEADERS

John P. Irish in an Alameda Speech Arraigns the Strikers for Their Conduct.

ALAMEDA, Sept. 19.—There was a large attendance at the Unitarian Club last evening, the occasion being "Ladies' night." John P. Irish delivered the address of the evening on the subject: "Americanism vs. Trade Unionism." He spoke as follows:

"Labor unions formed to shorten hours of labor and increase its wages are lawful and praiseworthy, and there is no well-founded moral or legal objection to their existence. Trade unionism is anti-American when it assumes powers that are denied to government, and proposes that no man shall be permitted to labor unless he have its license and permission. In this code of unionism capital punishment is decreed against any man who works without a union license. We have all stood for weeks in the presence of this assertion of power by union leaders, and the statistics show in that period over 2,000 attempts to visit capital punishment upon American citizens for violation of the union code.

"It is pleaded by union leaders, most of them foreigners or Americans only in the second generation, that labor unions have been the potent agency in advancing wages. I deny this premise. The policy of these leaders is to make themselves necessary by inciting strikers and making demands. These leaders have found it necessary to have foreign material in the union in order to control them. In New Jersey 82 per cent of the members of the unions are foreigners. Mr. Furuseth, head of the San Francisco Water Front Federation, has recently stated that 60 per cent of the members of his union are foreigners, not citizens of the United States, and only 5 per cent of them married.

"The report of the Labor Commissioner of New York prints the answers of sixty-five trade unions, showing their policy to be the exclusion from the trades of American boys. The Plasterers' Union in New York compelled employers to sign an agreement that no one should be permitted to learn the trade for seven years. The secretary of the Finishers' Union said: 'If a boy become a full-fledged mechanic in a technical school he would not know anything about unions.' Another said: 'Americans are not wanted in the trades. If educated they would not obey union orders unless convinced of their wisdom, nor pay assessments without an accounting.'

"By excluding American apprentices from the shops and excluding American boys who learn trades in the trade schools, and claiming the right to inflict the death penalty upon non-union workmen, foreign influence and power have effectively deprived American youth of its lawful birthright.

"All this is done under the pretense that the high wages of this country are caused by the efforts of the union leaders. This I deny. We had the highest wages in the world when we were colonies of Great Britain, and have continued to advance wages as the productivity of labor has increased by the use of labor-saving machinery. Granting that wages have been somewhat advanced by union organization that advance has been more than discounted by the economic losses caused by the industrial wars declared by the walking delegates and union leaders. One great establishment in San Francisco, practically closed by the strike of last May, was paying $240,000 per month in wages. The loss to its workmen alone now reaches a million of dollars. A conservative estimate of the loss to California by the existing strike is $20,000,000. As this loss paralyzes trade, bankrupts men and brings want everywhere, its final effect is to injure labor by producing conditions that make the demand for it less.

"I by no means cry out against foreign immigration. If it come here to obey their laws and be American in act and sentiment it is welcome and wholesome. But if it come here to set up a government within a government, and base that upon the right to assassinate Americans who are lawfully and loyally following our industrial occupations necessary to community life, it is not only unwelcome, it is un-American, treasonable and undeserving of the least toleration. We say to it, take your hand off the American boy. His person is sacred. He is the fruit of our public schools. He is the hope of the Republic. He shall learn trades whether you like it or not. He shall live in his home and practice whether you like him or not. When you sentence him to death for this you are attempting to assassinate this Republic, and it will crush you to powder."

FAILED TO APPEAR WHEN HER TRIAL WAS CALLED.

Julia Weisenhausen of Berkeley who, with her husband, has been arrested a number of times on charges of petty larceny and other minor offenses, is again in the County Jail. She was taken into custody as a defaulting witness because she failed to appear before Justice Edgar of Berkeley to be tried on a charge of disturbing the peace. She was arrested in San Francisco.

MOORING DAY AT SAN LEANDRO

Memorial Services Attended by Thousands of Country People.

SAN LEANDRO, Sept. 19.—The memorial exercises which took place here this afternoon were such that they will long hold a prominent place in the memory of the citizens as the most solemn and impressive time of their lives. All the stores were draped in mourning while the streets were deserted during the exercises which were held at the Public School grounds.

Preparations have been going on for three days and the decorations of the school-house and grounds were appropriate. Evergreens and black bunting were tastefully arranged while the platform from which the speakers addressed the gathered crowd was also draped in black.

The San Leandro Band was present and rendered several selections between the speeches which were delivered by the ministers from the different churches. A choir composed of the choirs of the various churches rendered sacred music while the entire audience joined in singing "America."

One feature of the occasion was the presence of the inmates of the County Infirmary. Several hundred of these poor people were gathered together, having been brought down in all the available vehicles that could be secured, to witness the services. They all seemed deeply moved and were grateful for the opportunity offered them by the citizens of this place, to be present on the occasion.

Special guests of the day were Mrs. P. P. Church and Captain Ritter, both of whom were personally acquainted with President McKinley.

Judge Melvin of Oakland was the speaker of the day. His address bore strongly on the sad death of President McKinley. During his discourse members of the audience were moved to tears by the eloquent words of the Judge.

The success of the exercises is due to the active work of the following committees:

Committee on Arrangements—Messrs. B. C. Hawes, G. R. Morgan, J. Franks, D. McCarthy and T. J. Martin.

This committee in turn selected three sub-committees which are as follows:

Decorations—Mrs. W. J. McCoy, Mrs. J. A. Hollings, Mrs. J. N. Frank, Mrs. J. Olyphia, Mrs. J. H. Garcia, Mrs. Van Horn, Mrs. H. A. Morin, Mrs. L. Walrath, Mrs. A. B. Cary, Mrs. L. Lynch, Mrs. William Fulton, Mrs. J. H. Morehouse, Mrs. Rufus Page, and Misses Meta Best, L. Hawes, M. Whelan, L. O'Donnell, C. Anderson, M. Gill, I. Flores, C. Gleason, I. Cary, M. Thurston, N. Sturtevant.

Musical—T. H. Beecher, O. J. Lynch, Joe Oakes, Dr. Charles H. Miller and H. G. Black.

Finance—Professor Charles Dabarn, S. Huff, E. Meyers, J. A. Cunha, C. Iverson and L. C. Morehouse.

These committees worked hard towards the success of the exercises and were not disappointed in the result of their work. The occasion was entered into by the citizens of this place with a spirit which was not lacking in the least detail. The platform from which the speakers addressed the audience was erected at no small expense and two teams were kept busy for several days collecting evergreens for the decorations.

The ladies of the decoration committee did wonderfully well and the result of their labors was visible in all directions.

NO ROOM FOR ANARCHISTS AT SAN LEANDRO.

SAN LEANDRO, Sept. 19.—The fact of there being no room in this place for an anarchist, was illustrated several days ago when Peter Nelson made some remarks in favor of the assassination of the President. The remarks had been made but a few hours when the man was suddenly notified by John Hoover, for whom he was working at the time, that his services were no longer needed. Nelson became frightened at the possible result of his remark and left town. It is thought that he started at once for Colorado, from which State he claims to have come to this place.

ATHENS TEAM WINS BASKET BALL GAME.

The Rushers of the San Francisco Y. M. C. A. were defeated by the Athens of the Oakland Association in a game of basket-ball last night by a score of 17 to 20.

HE HAS A BAD RECORD.

Deputy District Attorney W. H. L. Hynes has filed an information charging Arthur Randall with assault with a deadly weapon and two prior convictions of burglary. Randall is accused of having assaulted C. J. Buschke with a knife at West Berkeley. He was convicted of burglary in 1904 and again in January of last year.

DEFAULT DIVORCE CASES.

The divorce cases of Madeline B. Gomes against Antonio Gomes and Katherine Roeder against Mathias Roeder have been referred to the Court Commissioner to take testimony. Defaults have been entered against the defendants in the cases of Hanson against Hanson, and Geber against Geber.

PLAINTIFF DEFAULTS.

A default has been entered against Thomas C. Armstrong because he has failed to amend his complaint in his suit against his wife, Sarah Margaret Armstrong, to recover property he deeded her when he thought he was about to die.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS REDUCED.

Secretary P. H. Joyce of the M. J. Keller Company has filed a certificate stating that the number of directors of the company has been reduced from seven to five.

SERVICES BY THE CATHOLICS.

Mass Celebrated in the Churches Throughout the County.

In all the Catholic churches of this city and county special religious services were held this morning in honor of President McKinley, under instructions to that effect given by Archbishop Riordan in a circular letter to all the priests of the archdiocese, last Saturday.

The several churches were hung with black, and on the altars the gleaming candelabra and white antependium were hidden behind folds of mourning. The draping was elaborate, artistically done and very affecting. In the churches of St. Francis de Sales, Immaculate Conception, St. Patrick's, St. Joseph's, St. Anthony's, St. Elizabeth's and the Sacred Heart, the auditoriums were filled with mourners. Eloquent discourses were delivered by pastors and curators extolling the virtues of the late President and rebuking the crime which had plunged the nation into sorrow. The services in each instance were heightened by requiem music, which was rendered by choirs specially augmented and increased in effectiveness for the occasion.
